Proprietary article certificate

This is to certify that the UNITY-Air Server-xr (Product number: U-UNITY-1-XR) is designed, developed and manufactured by Markes International Ltd., Gwaun Elai Medi-Science Campus, Llantrisant, RCT. CF72 8XL, UK an ISO 9001:2008 accredited company.

The UNITY-Air Server-xr system is a Proprietary Article due to the following reasons. To our knowledge there are no other Thermal desorption instruments on the market today which provide these features and attributes.

1. Inert heated PTFE valve specifically optimised for thermal desorption analysis.
2. Ability to re-collect sample which is sent to split during any stage of the analysis from canisters, online samples and sorbent tubes. Re-collection of the outlet split for sorbent tube analysis can also be automated with subsequent automated re-analysis (Patent GB2365785)
3. Three sample channels enabling sequenced analysis of samples, blanks and a standard without user intervention. Samples can be taken from unpressurised sources.
4. Option to employ sorbent tube tracking technology TubeTAG which is a method compliant approach to maintaining tube traceability. Reliably recording tube and sample information at every step of the sampling and analysis process.
5. Narrow bore focusing trap (2mm i.d.) which can accommodate up to 60mm of sorbent giving unrivalled chromatography and analyte retention without the need for liquid cryogen.
6. Using the Markes software canister, online and sorbent tube samples can be analysed as part of the same analytical sequence with no need for user intervention.

The system spare parts, software, accessories and consumables required for the above system are all provided by Markes International and its authorised distributors. We are represented in India by Agilent Technologies India Pvt Ltd.
