Dear Colleague

You are nominated as member of the institute core team to promote and monitor the R & D activities in the institute. You may co-opt other staff members also from various departments of your faculty. To fulfill the mandates of Institute VISION-2031 it is required to accelerate the R & D activity in the institute.

A meeting of the members of R & D Committee is scheduled to be held on 19.10.2013 at 9.30 am in the committee room of CAO. Kindly make it convenient to attend the same.

The objectives to form this team are briefly explained below. Details will be discussed in the meeting.

1. To find out various schemes available for funding by various government agencies to Educational Institutions. AICTE, DST MHRD, PCRA etc. are various central agencies funding R & D projects.

2. To motivate your faculty colleagues for writing project to get funds for the institute to improve the existing infrastructure and help in resource generation. The institute expects that each faculty member must have at least one project. This will also create research ambience in the institute.

3. To explore the possibility of getting more patents from research outputs.

4. To collect data of various other projects presently running and prepare a brief report of the project outcome.

5. To find out the details of the projects completed by various departments of your faculty. Whether the utilization certificate is sent to the funding agencies?

All the principle investigator having any project running have to present the status of their before the committee on the schedule date to follow up the status.

Any new project proposed to be submitted must also be presented before the committee for its evaluation and suitability to avoid any embarrassment in future.

Dear Ma'am,

Greetings!

It is our pleasure to inform you that Amity College of Commerce and Finance, Amity University Uttar Pradesh, Noida is organizing a Two-days International Conference on the theme: 'Innovative Advances and Challenges in Commerce and Management' on 18th & 19th Dec 2014.

This two day International Research Conference will provide an opportune platform for industry –academia interface to discuss and deliberate on the upcoming challenges and Strategic issues in commerce and management. With the rapid development in e-business and technology, enterprises are now facing competition that is fiercer than ever before. Innovation and Advancement in Management and Commerce has become the mantra for leveraging business. The Details of the Conference can be seen at the following web link: <http://amity.edu/accf/conference/>

The conference will witness research paper presentations and deliberations by Eminent CEOs, Senior Accounting, Finance, Marketing & HR Professionals, Researchers, and Academicians. The conference will open new horizons to understand the gap in the existing research work and the scope for future research for both academicians as well as practitioners. The sessions would deliberate on such daunting issues, which requires rethinking how to 'integrate' the Management Practices and Philosophy into the business strategy and how to 'innovate' at all levels of the organization thus transforming the role of Management Practitioners into strategic partners in the organizations.

It is our proud privilege and pleasure to invite you as a Session Chair for our technical session in General Management.

We take this opportunity to invite you on behalf of the International Conference organizing team to be a part of this highly invigorating experience and enlighten us with your views. A line of confirmation from your end will be highly appreciated.

Looking forward for your association and support for the success of the Conference.

With Sincere regards,

Dr. Geeta Mishra

Dear Prof Swamy,

Sub: Evaluation of Research Output of Prof.Koushiki Choudhury

Greetings from Indian Institute of Management Calcutta (IIMC).

The Internal Personnel Committee (IPC) at IIMC requests you to act as an expert for evaluating research output of Prof. Koushiki Choudhury, Assistant Professor, who is being considered for the position of Associate Professor.

If you agree, we can send Prof Choudhury's research output and other related papers to you in electronic format at the earliest. We can also send hard copies if you so desire.

Subsequently, you would need to provide your written opinion and comments on the research output of Prof. Choudhury as also your evaluation of her performance on a 5 point scale. Your evaluation should reach us within 30 days of receipt of Prof. Choudhury's research output.

As we have a fairly challenging timeline, may I request you to providing your confirmation in the next two days?

In case you have any queries please revert.

I look forward to hearing from you at the earliest.

Thanking you,

With Best Regards

Sub.: Invitation as an external expert faculty selection at ITM University Gwalior

Dear Sir,

ITM University Gwalior is a multi-disciplinary University of repute in terms of quality teaching and research. It offers more than 60 degree programs in diverse areas of Engineering, Sciences, Management, Architecture, Agriculture, Pharmacy, Physical Education, Nursing, Law, Arts & Design, Education, Humanities and Social Sciences. The University received more than 20 awards and placed at 32nd rank in Management and 58th rank in Engineering as per NIRF ranking in 2016.

The University has started the selection process for appointing new faculty for various positions, hence we have scheduled interviews during the month of May-June, 2018.

With the approval of Hon'ble Vice Chancellor, we have the honour to invite you as a member (subject expert) of the selection committee to interview and recommend suitable candidates for the appointment in the School of Management.

The selection committee meeting is scheduled on May 21, 2018 from 10:30 AM to 04:00 PM in the JC Bose Block, Turari Campus. The University will reimburse your travel expenses and offer you honorarium as per University rules.

We request you to please accept our invitation and spare some of your valuable time for this noble cause and help this University to grow further.

Thanking You,
Yours sincerely,

Dear Reviewers,

Thank you for reviewing the manuscript UJLR-2018-0054 entitled "Testing the Relationships among Leisure Constraint Negotiation, Constraint, and Participation Intention among Chinese Female Migrants in Korea" for Journal of Leisure Research. We greatly appreciate the voluntary contribution that each reviewer gives to the Journal and hope that we may continue to seek your assistance with the refereeing process for Journal of Leisure Research.

The decision that we arrived at for this article was: Major Revision, basing the decision on your review and those of the other referees.

A copy of your comments to the author, along with those of any other referees, follows at the end of this letter for your information. Any files that referees uploaded for the attention of the author are attached as a PDF proof.

Referee comments to the author:
Reviewer: 1

Recommendation: Major Revision

Comments:

The significance of the topic and overall evaluation

This manuscript has an interesting and appropriate topic for the Journal of Leisure Research. Although many minorities go through conflicts and challenges in their daily living including leisure engagement globally, the majority of the research has been focusing on those who are residing in the U.S. Hence, it was a meaningful attempt to explore the leisure constraints of the minorities outside of the US. Moreover, this manuscript could have both meaningful practical implications and theoretical implications to the field. Despite the strengths of the study, the manuscript still needs some improvements to be considered as a publishable in Journal of Leisure Research. Therefore, I would recommend the article to be 'major revision and resubmit'.

Detailed feedback and requested changes are explained in the synthesis of the reviews below.

Content of Research

Overall the introduction and literature review were well written. The authors provided appropriate statistics and sufficient references to support their arguments. Moreover, the introduction, theoretical framework, and literature review were cohesive and reader-friendly.

However, the rationale of selecting 'perceived-constraint-reduction' model was confusing. I have looked over some of the references that the authors cited to support his model selection. However, some of the references were rather supporting the 'constraint-effect-mitigating model' than 'perceived-constraint-reduction' model. So, authors need to double check the references and re-clarify the rationale of selecting 'perceived-constraint-reduction' model.

Minor changes

1. It would be nice to mention the "literature review" section on Page 7.

Methods

In the methods section, several questions and clarifications are needed.

- Please include an example of each scale, so the readers could have an idea of the scale.
- Provide reliabilities of each scale in the measurement section as well (maybe just the score of Cronbach's alpha)
- Did you only measure the monthly income of the participants? Since the majority of the participants are married, it would be more reasonable to measure the average income of the family than measuring only the participant.
- Why did you use the path analysis rather than SEM? Path analysis is for the observable variables. But, your factors are latent variables. Thus, I would recommend using SEM, not the path analysis.
- To determine whether 'leisure constraints' is a mediator between 'constrain negotiation' and 'leisure participation intention', you need to measure the indirect effect of constraint negotiation on 'constrain negotiation' through 'leisure constraints'. However, this seems not measured in this study. In this case, I believe you cannot determine whether 'leisure constraints' is a mediator or not.

Please check the below article:
Zhao, X., Lynch, J. G. G., Jr., & Chen, Q. (2010). Reconsidering Baron and Kenny: Myths and truths about mediation analysis. Journal of Consumer Research, 37, 197-206. doi:10.1086/651257

- Did you control any socio-demographic variables? If not, why? As you mentioned in the introduction and the literature review, socio-demographic variables could have significant effects on leisure constraints and leisure intention of Chinese female migrants.

Results and Discussion

- Please use more recent references in the Discussion section instead of Jackson & Rucks (1995).
- Since the authors have not tested the indirect effect of 'indirect effect of constraint negotiation on 'constrain negotiation' through 'leisure constraints', we cannot determine leisure constraints' is a mediator.
- Please be careful not to overstate the findings.
- Since the authors treated 'leisure constraint' as a unidimensional factor when conducting path analysis, we would not be able to state that cultural constraint negatively affected leisure participation intention. We don't know which constraint factor was most significant for leisure participation.
- Unlike the introduction and literature review, references are missing in the discussion section. Please include the references so it could support your arguments.
- In the limitation section, the author stated that they used a four-dimensional scale to measure cultural constraint. But, this is not consistent with what they mentioned in the method section. They used four items to measure cultural constraints and four dimensions to measure leisure constraint, not a just cultural constraint.

Additional Questions:

Reviewer: 2

Recommendation: Major Revision

Comments:

Overall, the flow of the paper is ok.
However, variables and concepts discussed in the paper need probably an enhancement. Why any study around Chinese migrant workers is significant at all? for example, at the second paragraph of introduction where there is some statistical information about Chinese Migrants, substantial lines should be added about the importance of understanding leisure constraints of such economically marginalized female migrants from China. This paragraph should set the tone how this research contributes towards theory as well as management practice? This research at its current form looks more like a paper which is methodology driven. It seems to be lacking in providing the big picture.
At theoretical background also, where leisure constraints have been discussed, it fails to connect the variables with the population under study (Chinese Female Migrants).
Research methodology and quantitative analysis seems ok. However, the discussion of the findings is currently weak. At present, the conclusions are stretched very thin and are not focused, which limits the 'take away' for the reader and the contribution that the research makes.
A more focused results and discussion section in line with what the research has found should be

...ally, the written communication in the manuscript is readable but poor. There are frequent grammatical errors. Two tenses are being used in a single statement almost throughout the paper that degrades the quality of the work presented. (for eg.: "The tests confirmed that constraint negotiation negatively influences leisure constraint and at the"; "Another key finding is that leisure constraint negatively influenced leisure....." and so on.

TITLE: The impact of Social Capital Online on the Development of Entrepreneurial Intention

ABSTRACT: Entrepreneurial intention has been widely studied using the three antecedents proposed by Ajzen's theory of planned behavior. However, little is known regarding how to develop them. Using a social capital approach, we analyze the effect of social capital online on the formation of entrepreneurial intention.

That is, social capital created through social networks sites, such as Facebook and Twitter. We confirm the impact of social capital online in the antecedents of entrepreneurial intention for 587 individuals from Spain. Furthermore, we control for social capital offline and, through commonality analysis, find that social capital online and offline jointly influence these antecedents.

Submission No. : 10

Title : Do Self Actualized Employees Gain 'Being' (B) Values Through Peak Experiences? An Experimental Study

Dear Author(s)

Your abstract has been accepted for oral presentation of 7 minutes at the TSC 2018 Integrated East-West Forum. It obtained an average review score of 7.56 (out of a total of 10) in a review conducted by eight eminent reviewers, both from the East and the West. The cut-off for oral presentations is 7.14 and for poster presentations is 4.5. The role of the EasyChair submission system ends after this decision is communicated to you.

The Integrated East-West Forum oral presentations will be held on April 2, 2018 at Tucson, Arizona in video-linked mode with DEI, Dayalbagh.

You may contact Ms. Abi Montefiore, Assistant Director, Centre for Consciousness Studies for Registration, formal acceptance letter and US visa facilitation at 'center@email.arizona.edu'.

Thanks and regards

TITLE: Challenges and Motivations of Women Entrepreneurs Managing Home-Based Businesses in Pakistan

ABSTRACT:

The present study endeavors to comprehend the motives and challenges of women entrepreneurs managing the home-based businesses (HBB) in Pakistan.

This qualitative study is based on in-depth interviewees with 20 HBB women entrepreneurs in Pakistan. Purposeful sampling was used to choose the interviewees to ensure a diverse sample of interviewees in terms of age, experience, and type of business.

The motivations for establishing HBBs appear to be multifaceted, involving individual and work-related incidents identified within the practices of women entrepreneurs. Some of the challenges acknowledged as impediments to HBB women entrepreneurs include difficulties in acquiring start-up capital, lack of training, networking opportunities, and gender discrimination.

For the present study, gender refers to the masculine discernment. By excluding men (specifically, fathers, husbands, and sons), we have to some extent restricted our research. However, we argue that, in relative footings, facilitating women's voice is not a limitation but rather a substantial contribution, given women's traditional invisibility in a conservative society like Pakistan.

The present study contributes to existing, but limited, knowledge about HBB women entrepreneurs in Pakistan, a developing Islamic country, which can offer better understanding of a previously little-explored context. Given the lack of understanding of HBBs, particularly in connection to women entrepreneurs, the present study can be useful for the researchers in the field of women's entrepreneurship.

TITLE: The impact of Customer Attitude and Judgment on banking system prevailing in Pakistan

ABSTRACT: The purpose of this paper is to investigate the impact of customer attitude and judgement regarding three types of banking system operating in Pakistan. These types of financial institutions consist of conventional, Islamic and conventional standalone bank branches.

This study has collected the primary data through adopted questionnaires and used statistical package of social sciences (SPSS) software for data analysis. However, three hundred sixty (360) questionnaires distributed among equal ratio of customers of three types of banking system and response rate is 96 percentage from mark customers. The results indicate that fifty four (54) percentage of conventional customers are ready to shift their accounts into Islamic banks. Whereas, six (6) percentage customers already shift their accounts into Islamic financial institutions. Another interesting finding of this study is that stand-alone branches are more preferred by customers as compared to Islamic banks in respect of shariah issues. The finding of this study shows that sources of media have a positively significant impact on all types of customer awareness regarding their banks.

This study is the first ever attempt to investigate a comparative analysis among three types of financial institutions operations exist in Pakistan. This study also help for policy makers in order to better understand the needs and wants of target customers.

Invitation to Review Manuscript "Hinduism, Critics of Hinduism and Revival of Hinduism in India's Development: A Critical Examination"

Asian Development Perspectives <adev@yonsei.ac.kr>
To: sumita.srivastava@dei.ac.in

Wed, Mar 6, 2019 at 5:48 AM

Dear Dr. Sumita Srivastava

My name is Joel Atkinson and I am editor of Asian Development Perspectives (ADP), based at Yonsei University in South Korea.

A manuscript titled, "Hinduism, Critics of Hinduism and Revival of Hinduism in India's Development: A Critical Examination" has been submitted to our journal and considering your area of expertise, I would like to invite you to review the paper.

As you are likely unaware of ADP, please bear with me as I provide some brief background information. We began publishing in late-2010, with funding from South Korea's National Research Foundation under the name: Journal for Poverty Alleviation and International Development (JPAID). We transitioned to our new name in 2018, continuing as an uninterrupted series. We publish in print and online twice a year, with each issue containing five to six articles. ADP is Open Access and freely available to the public through our website. We also do not charge author fees like many Open Access journals.

Our reviewers are absolutely critical to the process of continuing to build ADP as a useful and rigorous outlet for scholarly research. I would be grateful if you would contribute to the high standards of the Journal through kindly agreeing to act as a reviewer for this paper. The abstract appears below. Any feedback you could provide based on your particular expertise would be extremely helpful. We are certainly not expecting you to provide a comprehensive, definitive review or to put too much time into preparing the review.

The preferred deadline for the review would be in six weeks, but a later deadline or extensions would be fine. Please let me know as soon as possible if you will be able to accept my invitation. If you are able to carry out the review, I will send you an invitation through our online system. If you are not available, I would very much appreciate if you could suggest an alternative reviewer.

Sincerely,

Joel

Title: "Hinduism, Critics of Hinduism and Revival of Hinduism in India's Development: A Critical Examination"

Abstract:

This paper utilises Angus Maddison's estimates of the GDP per capita of the major countries and regions of the global economy. India's per capita income of $450 was in line with that of other regions in the world in the year 1,000 CE. By 1700, prior to the industrial age, Western Europe had taken a significant lead over all other regions. India's GDP per capita of $550 was a little below that of China and Japan but higher than Latin America and Africa. So the cultural and religious underpinning of India was not particularly favourable or unfavourable in comparison with other areas of the world save Western Europe. This paper explores how in certain core aspects, Hinduism affects the key variables of economic and social development. It examines the arguments of those that suggest that Hinduism may have positive effects and those that suggest otherwise.

Dear Purnima,

I hope this mail finds you well.

I am happy to share that after five years of teaching Environmental Studies in the university, and giving back to my Alma mater, I put in my papers last August and am now working full time with the Delhi Greens organisation. This is to also share that I have transferred the JIID Journal to IP College to archive and run it further.

At Delhi Greens now, we are creating a new interdisciplinary Journal for promoting research on achieving sustainable development. The Journal is named Journal of Interdisciplinary Research for Sustainable Development (JIRSD) and is being published in collaboration with Unific Publishing House, an independent publishing house. The manuscripts for the first edition are almost ready, the first edition is needed to apply for ISSN. I write this mail to invite your association on the Journal Editorial Board. Your inputs in inviting papers, in getting papers reviewed and other matter of making this Journal better will be of much help. Please go through the Journal website: <http://jirsd.upub.in> and do let know your willingness for the same.

This is to also share that it has been ages that I have met you and also Madhu ma'am. I have just sent her a message requesting her to let me know when I can come and meet. Please do let know.

warmly,
Govind
